A GREAT LAND STEAL.

A St. Louis Man Claims to Have Been a Party to the Transfer.

Prominent Men, Dead and Alive, are Implicated, and Harris and Brazoria Counties, Texas, are the Losers-

Sr. Louis, Mo., Nov. 30 .- In a four column article the Republic prints this morning a confession of Dr. Lewis P. Ehrman of 1223 Washington avenue people of great prominence, dead and living, in what he deno nuntes "a great land steal'' of some 100,000 acres in Harris and Brazoria counties, Texas. The article continues: "The story as told to a Republic reporter and repeated twice in the presence of witnesses without substantial variation is to the effect that in 1882, A. A. Talmage, then general manager of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railroad, and J. O'Donnell, both of whom are now dead, secured fraudulently in their name and that of others, title to valuable land in Texas, embracing most of Harris and Brazoria counties. That the land thus recured was granted on the assumption that the parties whose names were used were either already or were about to become residents of Texas according to the state laws at that time in force. Dr. Louis P. Elarman is a son-in-law of J M. O'Donnell, and says he figured in the transfer of lands. He claims there was thus transferred to A. A. Taimage, J. M. O'Donnell, Maj. M. T. Lossean of Houston, Tex., and Charles E. Hayes, general manager of the Watash railway, between 100,000 and 250,000 acres of land, and that in 1885 the state of Tequs, having discovered the irregularity in granting the land, brought sur ngainst A. A. Tulmage and J. M. O'Donnell for recovery of the land. Ehrman says he was a resident of St. Louis at the time and was a leading witness in the case, having figured promi nently as one of the grantees. He said he was represented by Talmage and O'Donnell to be a wealthy man, who had bought up claims of others. man now confesses that his testimony by which the state of Texas was defeated in its suit was false, and that he swore falsely to save his father-in-law, A. Talmage, M. L. Los-and Charles M. Hayes from being convicted of fraud. further alleges that false statements to which he swore were prepared and submitted through Hays of Wabash. Ehrman claims that at the time of the "land steal," as he expresses it, he transferred to A. A. Talmage through James M. O'Donnell, without consideration but with a promise of a future recompense, fourteen sections of land which had been fraudulently granted to him, and up to this time he has never received a cent.

Mr. Huyes stated that he remembered a little of the case, and referred the reperter to Mr. Lloyd, claim agent of the Wabash railway, who he said was fully posted in regard to the facts in the case. Mr Lloyd said that he knew nothing of the charges preferred against Messrs. Hayes, Talmage and O'Donnell, but as secretary of the company he could safely say that their title to the land was absointely indefeasible and that the original itles were not fraudulently obtained.

A LOVE FEAST.

That's What the National Farmers' Alliance at Occaols, Fis., Resolves Itself Into. OSCAOLA, FLA., Dec. 2 .- In his speech to-day, in outlining the future financial policy of the National Fermers' Alliance, President Polk said it will demand the restoration of silver to all rights and qualities of legal tender which gold possesses, the issue of government currency direct to the people, equalization of taxes, prohibition of allen ownership of land, ownership and control of transportation lines by the government, limit of public revenues to economic administration of the government, graduated taxation of incomes and election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

At the conclusion of President Polk's address the Alliance resolved itself into a sort of love feast, during which C. A. Power, an old soldier from Indiana, moved that the ex-soldiers in the ball who indorsed the sentiments expressed in the speech of President Foulks to stand up, and between forty and fifty stood up amid the wildest enthusiasm. Under the inspiration of this good feeling, an ex-Union soldier from Wisconsin stood up in his seat and called upon all Union soldiers present to give three cheers for the old Confederates in the Alliance. They were given with a will. Then it was the old Confederates' turn, and they cheered the old soldiers of the Union with a vim and heartiness that raised no doubt as to the genuiness of their feeling. The cheers ended with an old fushioned "rebel yell," and as its echoes died away one aged veteran of the Confederacy shouted in a voice that rang out clearly through the hall: "That's a genuine article-I have heard it beto order President Polk began the delivove an hour. The address congratulated the Alliance on its achievements since last meeting, and then reviewed the causes of the agricultural decression. The president declared that this depression is an anomaly to the student of industrial progress. "Retrogression in American agriculture, '' he said, ''means national decay, and powerfu, and promising as is this young giant republic, yet its power and glory touch not the degradation of the American farmer Harm incident to the centralzation of the money power and upbuilding of monopolies was then pointed out, and both political parties was condemaed for forcing and encouraging these conditions. Among its recommendations was one that an organization be formed to be known as the national legislature, composed of a national presi-dent and presidents of all the state Allegislative reform demanded by the Alliance, both in state legislatures and in changes in the constitution, and recited demands to be made in the way of finaninl, election and legislative reforms.
